Last week, the House of Representatives took an important step to improve the security of our communities. Here in New Jersey, we remember that fateful day in September 2001 when more than 700 of our friends and neighbors never returned home from work and never returned to their families. And that day is in our mind today as we pledge to take every possible step to fight the threat of terrorism here at home.

I hope you'll watch this video to hear more about my work to make our communities safer.

Robert Menendez
Member of Congress
